Healceuticals has developed revolutionary dietary supplements utilizing cutting edge strip technology. The foundation of this new venture was the gathering of two teams with distinctive expertise - one with 8 years experience in the worldwide supplement business, and the other with 15 years in the distribution business. Founded in Florida, these two teams met in 2005 and decide to create an innovative product line, the main focus of which was on quality. Both parties agreed not to market any product before it achieved the best in research and quality. A goal that they anticipated would take a year, took three years instead. A long and hard process, but they believe perfection was achieved.

Their patent pending formula utilizes cutting-edge edible strip technology that is easy-to-use, convenient, discreet and portable. The body quickly absorbs them with the highest potency and best quality ingredients available. They perfected the latest delivery system, utilizing techniques unknown in the industry. Their patent pending process increases bio-availability of nutritional herbal remedies that cannot be reproduced with capsules or tablets.

The delivery is so powerful that effects can be seen and felt in only minutes. Each strip resembles a piece of paper but when placed on the tongue, the strip dissolves instantly delivering its ingredients with a blast of flavor.

Healceuticals is guided by one simple and over-riding objective: to bring products that are based on the latest science, and are manufactured to the highest pharmaceutical standards. Their leadership is reflected in the other firsts that they have brought to market: including the first complete and most advanced line of edible strips and the first and only mood enhancer for gamblers.

However being first is not the entire equation. Healceuticals is driven to be the best and their commitment to quality is evident in every step of their manufacturing process that takes place in a state-of-the-art facility in Florida. With their premium raw materials, highly devoted staff, purity testing, modern production equipment, and fast delivery system, they can help you sell their product lines rapidly and get their concept to market faster than anyone in the business.

To succeed in today's market economy, products must be effective and distinct. Supplements need to truly make a difference in the end user's life. Products must not only test ultra high for purity, but must also have the correct quantities and properties to be effective for its purpose.

Healceuticals offers 10 Reasons to carry their line of products:

1. Cutting-edge edible strips technology: Easy-to-use, Convenient, discreet and Portable
2. Innovative Dietary Supplements: Patent pending formulas, quickly absorbed by the body with the highest potency and best quality ingredients available
3. Most comprehensive and original concept on the market today

5. Experienced team at your service, educational material available
6. Strong Point-of-Sale
7. High Turn Over
8. Attractive Pricing
9. Great Value
10. Great Profits

Their goal is not to bring 50 new products a year, which anybody can do, but to create no more than two new products a year that will make the difference. They consider it a privilege to help their customers live healthier, to achieve wellness, and to derive the maximum quality of life each and every day. ●
